

Book Study: Culturally Responsive Teaching & The Brain

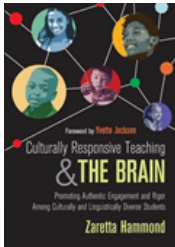

Zaretta Hammond, 2015

November 10, 17, 2021

December 1, 7, 2021

4:00 pm – 5:15 pm

Virtual via Zoom

“Culture, it turns out, is the way that every brain makes sense of the world. That is why everyone, regardless of race or ethnicity, has a culture. Think of culture as software for the brain’s hardware. The brain uses cultural information to turn everyday happenings into meaningful events. If we want to help dependent learners do more higher order thinking and problem solving, then we have to access their brain’s cognitive structures to deliver culturally responsive instruction.”

— Zaretta L. Hammond

Discussion sessions (4-75-minute sessions) to be hosted in a virtual format. CEUs awarded for each session. *Meets state requirement for cultural competency. This book study is more than a book study, be prepared to process and apply learning from each chapter and walk away with real tools to apply learning and leading with your colleagues.
